

TRANSITION BILL OF RIGHTS

Students in public schools with an Individualized Education Program (IEP) have certain rights under both federal and state laws. This Tennessee Transition Bill of Rights will help you understand the laws and rights related to your son or daughter's education. The ultimate goal is to help you advocate for your child's successful transition from high school into adulthood.

Starting at age 14, students with a documented disability in Tennessee have the right to...

Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), a law that ensures students with disabilities receive a free and appropriate public education (FAPE) in the least restrictive environment (LRE)

- Participate in making decisions around post-school goals, annual IEP goals, accommodations, and modifications included in the IEP.
- Develop meaningful post-school goals related to employment, education/training, and independent living (if appropriate). These goals should be based on age-appropriate transition assessment(s) and reviewed annually by the entire IEP team (including the student).
- Receive transition services based on their needs, preferences, and interests. These transition services should start no later than age 16 and should help them meet their post-school goals.
- Identify courses required for earning a high school diploma. Tennessee has four different diploma options (click here): regular, alternate academic, occupational, and special education diplomas. Each diploma option has different requirements.
- Participate in meetings related to education/training, employment, and independent living interests.
- Be informed about options for supports after school, including supported decision making and guardianship/conservatorship.
- Receive individualized education services through graduation with a regular diploma or age 22 (whichever comes first).

Under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA), a law that ensures students between the ages of 14-22 with a documented disability (with or without an IEP or 504 plan) receive Pre-Employment Transition Services (Pre-ETS)

- Receive instruction in career exploration, counseling, and skills needed for successful adulthood.
- Receive Pre-ETS in the school, community, and work setting. These may include:
 - Career Exploration
 - Work-based Learning Experiences
 - Postsecondary Education Counseling
 - Workplace Readiness Training, and
 - Instruction in Self-Advocacy
