

Virtually Checking-in With Your Students

Sometimes virtual instruction can be tough on students, so it is important to periodically check in on how they are feeling. These check-ins can be done through a survey or in a one-on-one meeting format. Below is a list of example questions to ask during your check in meetings:

- How are you feeling today?
- Is there anything big going on with you that I should know about?
- What technologies do you have access to at home?
- Do you have access to Wi-Fi at home? If yes, rate the quality.
- How comfortable are you with using technology to complete classwork at home?
- How comfortable are you with using video conferencing tools (e.g., Zoom or Skype)?
- How would you prefer to engage in learning with the instructor and class this semester? (Give examples if needed)
- Is there anything else you'd like to tell me about your ability to do school work at home that requires technology and/or the Internet?

Adapted from:

Dr. Torrey Trust - "Teaching Remotely in Times of Need" https://docs.google.com/presentation/d/1j7gr-wD18yF4kTwS3H7pwQSSy_E1ee125S3jnEMNLR8/edit#slide=id.p